Title "The Unseen"

My art is about architecture in nature, as you can see all my photos are about nature that I took with my personal lens. My photos contain bridges and buildings that humans created for the public eye to few. My pictures are put together in a collage with a white background as the base and white in the middle to separate them. My pictures do not contain human activity in them, just what humans created and what I thought were interesting. My favorite picture in this collage is the upside-down building created as an illusion and everything inside of it is upside down as well. My other images create bridges that were built for people to walk across. I love hiking and all things nature, so these pictures speak volume about my personality. My collage is digital and not on a canvas as all my images are digital and not drawn by me nor were the things pictured created by me.
